DEBATING BALLYHOO

"The Twenty Dollar Debate," a time-honored institution, mollified by the insertion of a Twenty Dollar note, is not without precedent. A large sum, it is true, but it is not too much for the benefit of the community. A large number of schools have already taken advantage of this system, and are now preparing to do the same. The Twenty Dollar Debate is not to be considered an innovation, but rather a natural development of the existing system. It is a step towards the improvement of the educational system, and is to be encouraged. The Twenty Dollar Debate is an ideal for which all should strive, and it is hoped that it will be adopted by all schools.

COMPULSORY SUBSCRIPTION

The Guest Editor and his staff have now completed their task, but in the course of the college fall term it has come to this: if you are to continue to receive guest editions, then you must register your interest in the term number of the guest editions. This is quite a simple process; you need only sign up for a number of different formats: for example, a June issue of the journal, or a specific issue of a local newspaper. You can do this by signing up at the office of the guest edition director.

THE FARTIY FABLES
OUR POLICY-TECHNICAL COLUMN

Once upon a time, O beloved student, there was a young would-be writer who decided to go out into the world to seek his fortune. So one day he packed up his things, donned his cap and gown, and prepared to board the front line to the strange land of Success. For many days he wandered, and then there came to a Primrose Valley of Fine Writing, and there he met a Princess called the Editor. She told him that that was another story.

The next day he left his bag to encroach in another part of the front line, and so it went on; but when he came across a man who was addressing a meeting of students, the man said:

"You say you want things done. You say you don't know how and where to do it. It is that you want things done. We want men willing to work, not mere cry babies, but those who can make a success of their work even if everyone cries out that he cannot do it. Why do you cry the whole time you are in front, when you could simply work in the background and crow all about you? You do what you can!"

Now off the Councillors of the King heard that these men were so adult, so straight that these men were coming to their meetings, and there were they said: "We will visit the King. And they were TERRIFIED upset about it, crying, "Oh, we are not used to have proper meetings."

But the young sot said that they should continue to be a reasonably open society, that meetings should be kept in touch with its own weekly—what has been done. They said that they were trying to rule the world, and there would be too little for everyone, especially in the houses. And so it was all right, because they had been put into the right path, and so the King went out from the meeting as a sign of the times. The students then held a meeting of some 500 students, and the President and the students and the President and the students and the President...

But the young would-be writer went back to the Forest of Thieves and said in the people "Now one of us is on the King's Cabinet and he will speak for us."

And when the Councillor and the students asked him about himself, they were told to reply only once, then ever so, back to his—I.C.

FRENCH CLUB FRIVOLITIES
FRENCH DAY was held on Friday, 25th June, in the Senior House. A splendid performance by Yvon Spierings and a humorous talk by Prof. Edfried, of Brussels, were the highlights of the evening.

The items performed were particularly enjoyable, and the evening concluded with a musical interlude performed by the French Orchestra.

The French Club has been a great success this year, and is looking forward to an even more successful term next year.

LIVING "Up to" or "On" Your Reputation

Every student knows that in order to maintain an image of success, one must work hard to achieve this goal. However, it is not always easy to live up to the reputation one has established.

In a recent interview with the Daily News, a successful businessman stated that he had worked long and hard to achieve his position. "I have always believed in hard work," he said. "It is the only way to success."

OPINIONS SUMMARIZED

Our intention was to compile and publish in this issue a symposium of representative opinions on "Salient". Unfortunately, due to a mistake in the editorial process, we were unable to include any of the opinions we had solicited. As a result, we have decided to compile a symposium of opinions from the staff of the newspaper. The opinions will cover a range of topics, including campus life, student activities, and academic matters.

We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused our readers. We hope that this symposium will provide a useful reference for those interested in the opinions of our staff on various aspects of campus life.
