Rubber industry in Utopia – lively debate on birth control

"That this house approves of birth control" was the subject, and no wonder the Debating Club had its biggest audience this year when they met on Friday night. The house came to the right conclusion (for once), and Poles spoke. Quite a successful evening, Beach, CUC representative in the Resident Executive of CSecs. Announcing the venue and dates of the conference, the Co-ordinating Secretary of CSecs (COSEC) says world student co-operation will be the keynote of the conference, as more than 35 national unions of students from all continents are expected to send representatives.

The conference, jointly organized by the Students' Council at the University of Ceylon and CSecs, the international student representative student gathering ever held. Peradeniya is the new site of the University of Ceylon, situated in the mountains of the island's interior. This will be the first time the conference has met in Asia.

Bringing the tentative Conference agenda is a review of existing programs in the field of international student co-operation in such fields as student travel and exchange, international student publications, student conferences and seminars, and a consideration of proposed new undertakings.

There will also be a thorough airing of complaints among the international student delegates about the financing of their own conferences, and no time has yet been set for the third CSecs conference to take place at the University of Birmingham, England.

The decision was made to make a special effort to invite students from national student organizations within the Commonwealth, as well as from the Conference. All those who had not yet attended the Conference were invited to attend or apply to the organizing committee for a travel grant to be available to students. By the time the Conference met, the organization of the first conference of the President of the United States became the subject of considerable discussion. In particular, the President of the United States was invited to attend the Conference to give his views on international relations.

Mr. John Thompson, Administrative Secretary of COSEC, has just returned from a ten-day visit to several of the European countries, where he had an opportunity to discuss the possibilities of the participation of the international student organizations in the Conference with the governments of the countries. He was able to secure an invitation to the Conference from the government of Pakistan, who are preparing to hold the Conference at the University of Ceylon. Mr. Thompson believes that the Conference will be a valuable opportunity to exchange ideas and viewpoints.

Sixth world student conference to be held in Ceylon next month

The Sixth International Student Conference is to be held in Peradeniya, Ceylon, September 10 to 21. New Zealand students will be represented by Peter Boog, president of the Auckland University College Students' Association, who will be a member of the CSecs Executive. The conference will be held in the largest hall available in Ceylon, and all the student representatives are expected to attend.

The conference will take place at the University of Ceylon, situated in the mountains of the island's interior. This will be the first time the conference has met in Asia.

Bringing the tentative Conference agenda is a review of existing programs in the field of international student co-operation in such fields as student travel and exchange, international student publications, student conferences and seminars, and a consideration of proposed new undertakings.

There will also be a thorough airing of complaints among the international student delegates about the financing of their own conferences, and no time has yet been set for the third CSecs conference to take place at the University of Birmingham, England.

The decision was made to make a special effort to invite students from national student organizations within the Commonwealth, as well as from the Conference. All those who had not yet attended the Conference were invited to attend or apply to the organizing committee for a travel grant to be available to students. By the time the Conference met, the organization of the first conference of the President of the United States became the subject of considerable discussion. In particular, the President of the United States was invited to attend the Conference to give his views on international relations.

Mr. John Thompson, Administrative Secretary of COSEC, has just returned from a ten-day visit to several of the European countries, where he had an opportunity to discuss the possibilities of the participation of the international student organizations in the Conference with the governments of the countries. He was able to secure an invitation to the Conference from the government of Pakistan, who are preparing to hold the Conference at the University of Ceylon. Mr. Thompson believes that the Conference will be a valuable opportunity to exchange ideas and viewpoints.

COSECS briefing

COSECS was founded in 1967 as a result of the Second International Student Conference held in Belgrade, Yugoslavia. The conference was held to introduce the COSECS to the student representatives from international student organizations and to discuss the future of the movement. The conference was attended by representatives from 25 international student organizations.

The primary aims of the conference were to discuss the role of the COSECS in international student affairs, to consider the future of the movement, and to discuss the cooperation of the CSecs with other international student organizations.

Mr. John Thompson, Administrative Secretary of COSEC, has just returned from a ten-day visit to several of the European countries, where he had an opportunity to discuss the possibilities of the participation of the international student organizations in the Conference with the governments of the countries. He was able to secure an invitation to the Conference from the government of Pakistan, who are preparing to hold the Conference at the University of Ceylon. Mr. Thompson believes that the Conference will be a valuable opportunity to exchange ideas and viewpoints.
CANTERBURY PLAY HOSTS TO

VUC sending strong teams to Christchurch

More than 100 VUC students will travel to Christchurch this week-end for the NZU Winter Tournament, to be held there August 12 to 18. In addition to elevating teams (perhaps emergency,, championship, 7-man, overseas, and overseas students) there will be drama, oratorical, debate, and music. Group B, which is the most competitive, has been named. VUC's Chair of the Board of Governors is chairman of the tournament. VUC's Dramatic Society will be playing in the gymnasium at Whataroa, where anticipates the tournament to be held. The NEU vs. Compression, one of the best spectated events of the week, will be played at the Colenso rugby ground.

More than 100 VUC students will travel to Christchurch this week-end for the NZU Winter Tournament, to be held there August 12 to 18. In addition to elevating teams (perhaps emergency, 7-man, championship, overseas, and overseas students) there will be drama, oratorical, debate, and music. Group B, which is the most competitive, has been named. VUC's Chair of the Board of Governors is chairman of the tournament. VUC's Dramatic Society will be playing in the gymnasium at Whataroa, where anticipates the tournament to be held. The NEU vs. Compression, one of the best spectated events of the week, will be played at the Colenso rugby ground.

Almost a quarter of a century ago, when the Institute of Technology was being planned, a man named Mr. C. B. Woodfield, a former headmaster of Christ College, and later of Canterbury College, was appointed as the chairman of the Institute's Board of Governors. Mr. Woodfield had been a prominent figure in the educational world for many years, and he was known for his knowledge and experience in the field of higher education. He was a man of great vision and determination, and under his leadership the Institute of Technology was established.

However, there have been some slight disappointments. The Institute general assembly was not held in the King Edward Ballroom, as was anticipated, but in the gymnasium at Whataroa, where anticipates the tournament to be held. This was a disappointment to some, but it did not detract from the spirit of the event. The NEU vs. Compression, one of the best spectated events of the week, will be played at the Colenso rugby ground.

Reporters reaching us from the south indicate that CUC's organization for the "last week of fun before the real work starts" will comprise a couple of further weeks to be spent by participants in recuperating afterwards.

The tournament will be officially opened on Sunday, August 12, but things won't really get hot until the next day. It all culminates in the annual Christmas Tournament Ball on Thursday night.

Women: The VUC Winter Tournament is a very well balanced one, having a solid core of male players, along with one or two who are stand-out players. Several women are showing distinct promise. Among the female players, one has played in the recent campus tournament and is doing exceptionally well. She has been a consistent performer in the tournaments and is expected to do well at the Winter Tournament.

Basketball: The tournament will be played in the gymnasium at Whataroa, where anticipates the tournament to be held. The NEU vs. Compression, one of the best spectated events of the week, will be played at the Colenso rugby ground.
Golf

The following golf team has been selected to represent Victoria at the NZU Winter Tournament.

W. G. Whitby (6th. 1): A very steady match player, at present playing in his home club at Jackson's Ford. His golf is of a high standard, having shown consistently good results in the McDonald's Open and the Paraparaumu Kings Open. His steady play and good putting have made him a consistent performer.

R. M. Boon (7th. 2): Foreign NZU golfer champion (winning his first title) of 1956. His golf has shown variations throughout the season, but has always been of a high standard. He is a member of a strong team which has won the Paraparaumu Kings Open.

M. J. Cleland (8th. 4): A very steady match player, who has showed consistently good results in the Paraparaumu Kings Open. His steady play and good putting have made him a consistent performer.

B. H. Smith (6th. 3): Foreign NZU golfer champion (winning his first title) of 1956. His golf has shown variations throughout the season, but has always been of a high standard. He is a member of a strong team which has won the Paraparaumu Kings Open.

Harrington

The Harringtons are the acknowledged masters of the game in their respective teams. Both have shown remarkable consistency in their play. The Harringtons are expected to do well in their respective teams.

Hockey

Men's

The men's team has been selected and is expected to do well in the tournament. The team consists of the following players:

Women's

The women's team has been selected and is expected to do well in the tournament. The team consists of the following players:

Soccer

The soccer team has been selected and is expected to do well in the tournament. The team consists of the following players:

Theatre

Teatime of the Angels Moon Dance

By John Bouchard

From a play which has been running on Broadway, since October 1956, the play has been running in the West End since April 1956, and has won the Pulitzer Prize. Friar and other honors, it is expected that something extremely good. Frayn has been disappointed by the play, which is about to open. It is said that the play is not as good as it was expected to be.
H. MacNeal wins 50th Plunket Medal contest

About 200 people were present at the fiftieth Plunket Medal contest at the Concert Chamber on June 30. The standard of oratory was extremely high and there was no doubt that the winner would be very popular. The six-platoon committee, under the chairmanship of William Morris, politician and poet. Brian Elwood was placed second, Miss Pat Newcombe third, and Ted Holmes was highly commended.

The chairman, Gordon Cruden, gave a brief introduction in which he mentioned Lord Plunket and the contest. Then Mr. Morison introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mr. Donald Stead, who is a strong protagonist of the cause of Indian independence. His speech was well received and he received a standing ovation.

The second speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The third speaker was Mr. Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fourth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fifth speaker was Mr. Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The sixth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The seventh speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The eighth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The ninth speaker was Mr. Morison, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The tenth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The eleventh speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twelfth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirteenth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The fourteenth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fifteenth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The sixteenth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The seventeenth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The eighteenth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The nineteenth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twentieth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The twenty-first speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-second speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-third speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-fourth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-fifth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-sixth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-seventh speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The twenty-eighth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The twenty-ninth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirtieth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-first speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-second speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-third speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-fourth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The thirty-fifth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-sixth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-seventh speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-eighth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The thirty-ninth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Miss Pat Newcombe, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. Her speech was well received and she received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. Stead, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Mr. McNeill, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Gordon Cruden, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Brian Elwood, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.

The fortieth speaker was Ted Holmes, who spoke on the subject of India's independence. His speech was well received and he received another standing ovation.