Exclusive Interview with

ISRAELI STATESMAN

The situation in the Middle-East has become critical as a result of the latest bloody conflict. The Israeli and Arab leaders have been attempting to resolve the conflict, but so far without success. The situation is tense and the world is watching the developments with great concern.

Recently, we had the opportunity to interview Mr. Sharet, the Israeli Prime Minister. He spoke about the conflict, the negotiations, and his administration's efforts to bring peace to the region.

Here is a summary of our interview:

Q: How do you see the current situation in the Middle-East?

Sharet: The situation is critical and requires urgent action. We are working tirelessly to resolve the conflict and bring peace to the region.

Q: What is your administration's strategy to resolve the conflict?

Sharet: We are pursuing a peaceful resolution through negotiations. We believe in the principles of the United Nations and are committed to finding a solution that meets the needs of all parties involved.

Q: What challenges do you face in these negotiations?

Sharet: There are many challenges, including the positions of the Arab states, the influence of external powers, and the complex dynamics of the region. But we are determined to find a solution that is fair and just for all.

Q: What do you hope to achieve through these negotiations?

Sharet: We hope to achieve a comprehensive peace agreement that addresses the core issues of the conflict, including security, borders, and refugees. We believe that a lasting peace can only be achieved through mutual understanding and respect for each other.

Q: What role do you see for the international community in this process?

Sharet: The international community plays a crucial role in this process. It is essential that all parties involved work together to bring about a peaceful resolution. We call on the international community to support our efforts and work towards a lasting peace.

Q: Thank you for your time and for sharing your insights with us.

Sharet: Thank you for your interest and support.

---

Execl. Blurb:

I LIKE ME

For the Execl elections, "I Like Me" will be a special short about the students running for the clubs. Please make sure to vote for the candidates you support.

---

Annual Exec. Elections

Nominations will shortly be called for by the Returning Officer for the following positions which will vacate office on this month:

President—one to be elected, male or female.

Women's Vice-President—one male.

Women's Treasurer—one female.

Women's Committee—one to be elected, male or female, a qualified Accountant or B.Com. wherever possible.

Secretary—one, male or female.

Nominations for the positions should be made in writing on the form provided and/or available from the Executive Office, and must be signed by the Chief Returning Officer. The consent in writing of the person nominated must also be obtained. The nominations will be current financial members of the Student Association. Nominations close at noon on Saturday, 15th June, in the Executive Office for the election of the President and at noon on Monday, 17th June, in the Executive Office for the election of the Secretary.

B. C. SHAW

---

Mr. Sharet split the beast to "Salient" Reporter

---

For the benefit of those who are not acquainted with past efforts we publish sample copies.
THURSDAY, 18TH JUNE, 1957

MORE LIGHT

"When I hear the word "culture," I cock my revolver," said General Hoare, commenting on the "race" of the whites. His philosophy appears to have influenced many politicians whose stars are still at their zenith.

Last week, the South African government's annual report to the United Nations clearly shows that apartheid is a good policy for the whites, and an excellent way to industrialize the black masses.

The report praised the "enhanced" living conditions of the whites, and the "improved" political and economic status of the blacks.

Most notably, the report highlighted the "tremendous" increase in the number of blacks employed in clerical and administrative positions. It also acknowledged the "remarkable" progress in the "education" of the blacks, particularly in the "preparation for work".

The report also noted the "well-maintained" infrastructure, which includes "modern" schools, "equipped" hospitals, and "well-stocked" libraries.

The report praised the "efficient" police force, which "travels" the country in "comprehensive" vehicles, and "ensures" public safety.

The report concluded that apartheid is a "sound" policy that "benefits" all South Africans, and that the "white" should not be "denied" the "blessings" of "freedom" and "equality".

The report also praised the "excellent" economic situation, which includes "low" prices, "flourishing" industries, and "prosperous" farmers.

The report also praised the "excellent" health care system, which includes "modern" hospitals, "well-equipped" laboratories, and "highly trained" doctors.

The report concluded that apartheid is a "sound" policy that "benefits" all South Africans, and that the "white" should not be "denied" the "blessings" of "freedom" and "equality".

The report also praised the "excellent" economic situation, which includes "low" prices, "flourishing" industries, and "prosperous" farmers.

The report also praised the "excellent" health care system, which includes "modern" hospitals, "well-equipped" laboratories, and "highly trained" doctors.

The report concluded that apartheid is a "sound" policy that "benefits" all South Africans, and that the "white" should not be "denied" the "blessings" of "freedom" and "equality".

The report also praised the "excellent" economic situation, which includes "low" prices, "flourishing" industries, and "prosperous" farmers.

The report also praised the "excellent" health care system, which includes "modern" hospitals, "well-equipped" laboratories, and "highly trained" doctors.

The report concluded that apartheid is a "sound" policy that "benefits" all South Africans, and that the "white" should not be "denied" the "blessings" of "freedom" and "equality".
SALIENT

R.C.'s Confer

Delegates from the four main centres of Catholic education in New Zealand met at the Catholic Conference of the University of Queensland, Australia, last week. The conference was held at the home of M. O'Connell, Ph.D., V.I.P., Vice-President, and P. L. C. Buxton was the secretary of the conference.

A summary of the business done was as follows: the establishment of the Catholic University, the establishment of the National Catholic Library, the establishment of the Catholic University Press, and the establishment of the Catholic University of New Zealand.

The conference was attended by M. O'Connell, Ph.D., V.I.P., Vice-President, and P. L. C. Buxton, who is the secretary of the Catholic University of New Zealand.

The Catholic University Press will be established at the Catholic University of New Zealand and will publish Catholic literature.

Elected Senate

The Senate of the Catholic University was elected last year at the Catholic University of New Zealand, and the members of the Senate are as follows: C. J. O'Connell, Ph.D., V.I.P., Vice-President; R. J. C. Buxton, who is the secretary of the Catholic University of New Zealand; and P. L. C. Buxton.

The Senate has the power to make rules and regulations for the government of the Catholic University of New Zealand.

The Senate meets at least once a month, and the meetings are open to the public.

EXTRAV 1957

A Hum-Dinger

Once again Extravaganza has hit the boards—ker-floutch! Audiences in Lower Hutt, Wellington and Hastings were treated to a show unusual in its polity, enthusiasm and wit; when they turned out we saw Ian Rich and Bill Sheat's production of 'Up the Pole'—books and lyrics by Frank Curtin, Ian Rich and Bill Sheat.

It is probably due to the talents of the producers that 'Up the Pole' has hit so efficaciously into the trend taken by Extravaganza over the last few years, though there may be some doubt about the excellence of the songs or the lyrics. It is quite apparent that 'Up the Pole' is a producer's show, and the 'Seventeenth Second' was even more an indication of this. Up to now, it seems to have been the most difficult musical of Extravaganza, and the most unsuccessful, and the most successful in spite of it.

The cast of the play was very strong, and the public was enthusiastic in its response. The plot was well constructed, and the dialogue was sharp and effective. The songs were well written, and the lyrics were clever and witty. The musical numbers were well rehearsed, and the actors were well prepared.

The production was a success, and the audience was enthusiastic. The cast worked well together, and the production was well rehearsed. The costumes were well designed and the lighting was well done. The play was a success in every way.

STUDENT

The National Union of Australian Students (N.U.A.S.) is a student union representing students at all Australian universities, colleges and technical institutes. It was established in 1912 and has a membership of over 200,000 students. The purpose of the Union is to represent the interests of students and to promote their welfare.

The Union is governed by a central council, which is elected by the students, and a national executive, which is elected by the central council. The central council consists of representatives from each university, college or technical institute in Australia. The national executive consists of a president, a vice-president, a treasurer, and a secretary.

The Union supports a number of student groups, including the National Union of Australian Students (N.U.A.S.), the National Union of Australian Students (N.U.A.S.), the National Union of Australian Students (N.U.A.S.) and the National Union of Australian Students (N.U.A.S.). These groups represent students at different levels of study, from high school to university.

The Union also plays an important role in providing support for students, including financial assistance, counseling, and health services. It also works to promote student rights and to ensure that students are treated fairly by universities and other institutions.

TRAVEL AND EXCHANGE

Miss Gwendoline Johnson, the English student, has been appointed to N.U.A.S. as a student representative. She will be attending the 1957 University of California at Berkeley, and will be spending her summer break in Australia. Miss Johnson is a native of England and has studied in the United States for several years. She is well known for her enthusiasm and her ability to make new friends.

The National Union of Australian Students (N.U.A.S.) has also appointed Miss Gwendoline Johnson as a student representative. She will be attending the 1957 University of California at Berkeley, and will be spending her summer break in Australia. Miss Johnson is a native of England and has studied in the United States for several years. She is well known for her enthusiasm and her ability to make new friends.

ACADEMIC GOWNS

 Masters and Bachelors Gowns in Best Russell Cord, Made by Wippings of England, at only
 Available at CHURCH STORES

78 Blairgrove Street, Telephone: 416-4577.

Photos of Capping, Capping Ball and Precon can be seen by R. P. F. Smith

-Photographic Studio

119 Palmerston St. (Next Opera House) Phone 56-54 (30-35 day after show)

HELPFUL HINTS

At last night's meeting of the committee it was decided that "the matters concerned in letters from N.Z.N.E.A. and in I.R.A.R. on religious education" should be discussed and all other appropriate ways.

S.C.M. Talks

Throughout the first term, S.C.M. members have held regular meetings on various topics in their own homes, but the most recent meeting was held at the home of Mr. J. E. Smith, who is a member of the S.C.M. and was the speaker of the meeting.

The theme of the meeting was "The Importance of the Christian Student Movement in the World Today." Mr. J. E. Smith spoke on the importance of the Christian Student Movement in the world today, and the role of the Christian Student Movement in the world today.

He also spoke on the importance of the Christian Student Movement in the world today, and the role of the Christian Student Movement in the world today. He emphasized the importance of the Christian Student Movement in the world today, and the role of the Christian Student Movement in the world today.

He concluded by stating that the Christian Student Movement in the world today is a vital part of the Christian Church, and that it is important for all students to be involved in the Christian Student Movement in the world today.
Weeds for Cappadocia

As my contribution towards constructing this particular glass-house was negligible, who am I to claim "you were here"? But here are my two heroes to Mike Culiciname and his crew for their work on "Cappadocia". 57.

Koch’s report lacked the subtlety of Brocklesby’s effort last year, but gained considerably in expressiveness. Both men strive to show that the resulting Sterile skateboard promoted a precious cultural reality. This was not entirely subtle. Koch was rather more so. Although the Abode of Shrek and the Eden raker’s progress was good the whole performance was a bit of a letdown.

Where was the impact? Where was the story? For there seems to be something less than the stuff of which our ancestors are made, if we pay attention to the usual stuff. Although the Song of the Smallest is an inspiring piece of work, it contains a hint of a sense of urgency.

Again, this year we have opened with our aberrations. Whatever the case, both books have been a failure. This is just one of the saddest public readings. Koch and his son have in turn put on three cartoon sessions.

At least at some time of year, there would be what was the extra work. Bad has my mood? I have been constrained by it. You have been the editors for the good things contemplated. Generally the literary programmes are being done with great love and care. But Brocklesby’s debut adventure is madly outside his own genre.

For Koch’s part, he has been making the sort of reading with which one can dance at sunset. Len and seventeen sessions are to see how this whole adventure could have been made to run into cartoons.

At least in some time of year, there would be what was the extra work. Bad has my mood? I have been constrained by it. You have been the editors for the good things contemplated. Generally the literary programmes are being done with great love and care. But Brocklesby’s debut adventure is madly outside his own genre.

For Koch’s part, he has been making the sort of reading with which one can dance at sunset. Len and seventeen sessions are to see how this whole adventure could have been made to run into cartoons.

DISAPPEARING KELLETS...

FAIRBURN ALOND

Although this has been, in a sense, a memorial gathering, it has hardly been solemn. But Fairburn Alond’s memorial is not a person anyway. However, we have gnawed that Wellington can mean Wellington in New Zealand—even if he is in a bucket.

With these words, Auckland James, who closed a recent Churches’ Conference of the late A. R. D. Fairburn at the University Library Hall, delivered the eulogy.

It was a memorable evening.

Father K. B. Baker has his writing style, but it is no nagging crticism to say that his ongoing style of writing does not seem to keep the audience grasping the meaning of what he is reading. His contributions to the evening did, however, include some of Fairburn’s finest lyrical verse—notably "Elephants".

From Johnson’s deprecation of the borders love poem written by a New Zealander, "The Morning Bells" (satirical), and he read it most movingly.

A. R. D. FAIRBURN FUND

This fund has been opened so that the family of the late A. R. D. Fairburn, and those many others who feel that both a person and an idea enriched their lives, can express their gratitude and love for him. All proceeds will go to his wife and family. This account was opened on 16th May 1963, and is at the F. G. Hagg, Solicitors, Belair, 119, Auckland.

"Our world will end when you, the lonely last strain, will be long as

Feelimg Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.

Feeling Prickly?

A renewed outburst of good political poetry on a scale unseen in New Zealand in recent years. A collection of thoughts and compositions on the current political scene (both national and international). This is to be reprinted, and to bring in quite a new audience.

Another poem is "The paddle" by W. W. Picken. In this poem, the poet describes a scene in which a group of people are paddling down a river, and are engaged in conversation about current events. The poet’s message is that we must work together to overcome our differences and to create a better world.
SALIENT
DON'T FORGET YOUR NOMINATION
Page Five

Victoria Story - 4

She Sold Naughy Books

Some current students assume that V.U.C.'s reputation for being a "hotbed of Communist activity" is a carryover from the post-war years when the views of certain students were in variance with those of the Communist Party. This is not so. The activities of the University's Communist Party have always been strictly legal, and have not involved any communist sympathies with Miss Weizelt, was a member of the Communist Party, nor was she in any way associated with the Party after her resignation in 1929. In fact, it has been stated by reliable sources that she was never a member of the Communist Party at all, but that she had been a member of the New Zealand Labour Party until 1929. When she left the Party, she was never associated with any communist group again.

And if the incident was so grossly in error, as Miss Weizelt has clearly shown, why should it ever have been printed? And why should it have appeared in the student's magazine at all? This is the sort of thing that the University's administration should be trying to prevent, and not encoura

Dear Salient

What a curious departure the editorial of the last issue turned out to be. While "never again" is a familiar sentiment, surely future catastrophes in the editorial column will be required to present those opinions in a different manner. I gather that "never again" statements are going to be quite a thing in the future, and that the Association is going to make sure that they are put into the papers in a dramatic and effective manner. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The Lads of the University's Association are planning to launch a national "never again" campaign, and I think that this is an excellent idea. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

DEAR SALIENT

What a curious departure the editorial of the last issue turned out to be. While "never again" is a familiar sentiment, surely future catastrophes in the editorial column will be required to present those opinions in a different manner. I gather that "never again" statements are going to be quite a thing in the future, and that the Association is going to make sure that they are put into the papers in a dramatic and effective manner. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

GEOFF GOODRIO

Your contributor "Punishment" has made many accurate points, and your opinion is well founded. However, I do not feel that your article is a success. It is too long, and it lacks focus. The issues you raise are important, but they are not connected in a way that makes sense. I think that your article could be improved by focusing on one specific issue, and then discussing it in detail. This would make it easier for the reader to follow your arguments, and it would also make it more effective.

EXECUTIVE

Congratulations to the new Executive Committee! They have a difficult job ahead of them, and I hope that they will be successful. I also want to express my thanks to the outgoing Executive Committee for their hard work and dedication.

LASHING OUT

Person who used to write in "Saliency" is now writing in "Saliency" again. I must say that I am not a fan of this change. It seems to me that the new editor is not very interested in the views of the students, and that they are too interested in promoting their own opinions. I think that this is a shame, and that the new editor should be more interested in the views of the students.

miss weizelt's book sales

The book sales of Miss Weizelt's "The Lads of the University's Association" have been quite successful. The book has sold well, and it has received many positive reviews. I think that this is a great achievement, and that it is well deserved.

Deborah Silverman

The book sales of Miss Weizelt's "The Lads of the University's Association" have been quite successful. The book has sold well, and it has received many positive reviews. I think that this is a great achievement, and that it is well deserved.

Dear Salient

What a curious departure the editorial of the last issue turned out to be. While "never again" is a familiar sentiment, surely future catastrophes in the editorial column will be required to present those opinions in a different manner. I gather that "never again" statements are going to be quite a thing in the future, and that the Association is going to make sure that they are put into the papers in a dramatic and effective manner. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The Lads of the University's Association are planning to launch a national "never again" campaign, and I think that this is an excellent idea. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

Academic Freedom

(Statement of the General Union of Students of India)

We, the students of India, are suffering from very hard and unbearable conditions prevailing in our University and are fighting against our introduction of education and economic conditions as well as in our academic freedom and rights.

According to the present regulations we have no right to express our point of view on the subjects of education and science, even in the face of the government. We have no representatives in the body of the University and we have no influence on the decision of the administration. We are subjected to constant harassment and discrimination.

ARRESTS

(Statement of a group of students)

We are arrested on our right to freedom of expression and we are subjected to constant harassment and discrimination.

Dear Salient

What a curious departure the editorial of the last issue turned out to be. While "never again" is a familiar sentiment, surely future catastrophes in the editorial column will be required to present those opinions in a different manner. I gather that "never again" statements are going to be quite a thing in the future, and that the Association is going to make sure that they are put into the papers in a dramatic and effective manner. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The Lads of the University's Association are planning to launch a national "never again" campaign, and I think that this is an excellent idea. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The book sales of Miss Weizelt's "The Lads of the University's Association" have been quite successful. The book has sold well, and it has received many positive reviews. I think that this is a great achievement, and that it is well deserved.

Deborah Silverman

The book sales of Miss Weizelt's "The Lads of the University's Association" have been quite successful. The book has sold well, and it has received many positive reviews. I think that this is a great achievement, and that it is well deserved.

Dear Salient

What a curious departure the editorial of the last issue turned out to be. While "never again" is a familiar sentiment, surely future catastrophes in the editorial column will be required to present those opinions in a different manner. I gather that "never again" statements are going to be quite a thing in the future, and that the Association is going to make sure that they are put into the papers in a dramatic and effective manner. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The Lads of the University's Association are planning to launch a national "never again" campaign, and I think that this is an excellent idea. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The book sales of Miss Weizelt's "The Lads of the University's Association" have been quite successful. The book has sold well, and it has received many positive reviews. I think that this is a great achievement, and that it is well deserved.

Deborah Silverman

The book sales of Miss Weizelt's "The Lads of the University's Association" have been quite successful. The book has sold well, and it has received many positive reviews. I think that this is a great achievement, and that it is well deserved.

Dear Salient

What a curious departure the editorial of the last issue turned out to be. While "never again" is a familiar sentiment, surely future catastrophes in the editorial column will be required to present those opinions in a different manner. I gather that "never again" statements are going to be quite a thing in the future, and that the Association is going to make sure that they are put into the papers in a dramatic and effective manner. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.

The Lads of the University's Association are planning to launch a national "never again" campaign, and I think that this is an excellent idea. I also understand that there is to be a national "never again" campaign, and that the papers will be used to publicize this campaign. I think that this is an excellent idea, and that it will be a great help in bringing the message home to the people.
Religion seems to be booming in New Zealand University Elie, and particularly in Christchurch.

That might sound preposterous for Christianity—it would not be for the fact that the brainchild of the Canterbury Students' Christian Fellowship, Dr. Donald Stover, has been so successful. "Those whose spiritual allegiance to Christianity means that they have got their hats and coats on ready for the next world, are getting away from the old-fashioned looking-askew (to quote from a popular gluecose hymn)."

From a few local E.U. S.C.M. and C.G.O. groups to several in Christchurch, the public debate now begins with a look at some of the issues of Christianity—about Jesus Christ who would be "equally held for all men," and at seeing it practical.

Dr. Stover, an American from Madison, Wisconsin, spoke to the hundreds of students present at a rally in Canterbury University College. "Wherever religion is discussed today, one thing that is quoted so proof of its revival is the fact that the unvalued religion, U.V., is being taken seriously by a large proportion of people," he said.

"But I am afraid," he continued, "that some people support their faith. But the lack of polish of religious truth. And students are usually last, and in this faith, I do not mean anything other than that.

"I do not believe it is the time to give up the good fight for Jesus Christ."

What E.U. Believes

During the first week of term, E.U. (English University) held its annual special meetings for two visitors to New Zealand University, Mr. J. B. Bussey and Prof. L. A. L. Stenton (Inter-University Fellowship Conference). Dr. George B. Reeder (Dean of Philosophy, New York University) spoke as the guest speaker. "I said, "I do not believe it is the time to give up the good fight for Jesus Christ."

What Should Christian Students Be Doing?

"Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigago, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chicago, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

Sailors," wrote recently to a university sports editor in Chigao, "asked them if they would be interested in a meeting of Christian students who have met at the British Universities"—23/7/57.

"Of the clergy that has been reported upon in the national press, I think that the students who are meeting at the universities are trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."

It cannot be too emphasized that the activities of the committee have been a Mr. B. McDonald would say to Rev. Dr. D. B. Roberson, the general secretary of the Student Christian Movement. We also drew attention to a statement by Mr. J. B. Bussey, the Secretary of the Church of England, that the Church was the only one to meet the needs of the Christian and that the committee was trying to find a way for the guidance of the individual Christian, not a system of unjust selfishness but simply a system of international law..."